CHANNEL

The site

Sessions concentrated on market, explorer, HYPE and vault pages. People arrive with a question and stay to answer it.

X

Announcements run on the founder's personal account, around 3,500 followers in the Hyperliquid ecosystem, plus @liquidterminal. One post reaches roughly a month of site traffic.

CHANNEL

Telegram

The alert bot pushes fills, liquidations and market events to subscribers who opted in deliberately.

Traffic measured by Vercel Analytics on the production deployment. Every API request behind the terminal is served by HypeDexer, so the volume is independently verifiable rather than self-reported.

Free is the product, not a phase.

Every ranking, table and chart on Liquid Terminal is there because the data says so. That is the only reason anyone trusts a terminal, and it is what a sponsor is actually buying into.

NEVER

No ads

No ad network, no banners, no interstitials, no rotating slots.

NEVER

No token

No point system, no airdrop farm, no speculative incentive layer.

NEVER

No paywall

Every page readable without an account. No pro tier held back.

NEVER

No data sold

User activity is not packaged, resold or handed to third parties.

A sponsor logo is only worth something on a site people believe. Protecting that belief is not a constraint on the offer. It is the offer.

01 One sponsor seat.

Not a tier list, not an ad network, not a slot that rotates with three others. One brand on the terminal, exclusive for the length of the term.

WHAT THE SEAT INCLUDES

- + Exclusive sponsor logo across the site
Footer of every page, with a link back to you.
- + Top slot on the funding page
A dedicated page explaining what it costs to run and who pays for it.
- + Announcement across the channels
Founder's X account, the project account and the Telegram bot.
- + Right of first refusal on renewal
The seat is yours to keep before it goes back on offer.

WHAT IT WILL NEVER INCLUDE

- x A row in any table
No sponsored listings, ever, in any dataset.
- x A boosted token, vault or DEX
Rankings answer to the data and nothing else.
- x Editorial placement in the wiki
Curation stays independent of who is paying.
- x Input on the roadmap
You sponsor the terminal. You do not steer it.

Where the logo lives.

Two placements, both outside the data. The footer carries it everywhere without ever sitting next to a number it could be accused of influencing. The funding page carries the full story.

Persistent, low density, structurally outside the content area. Seen on every session without ever competing with the data for attention.

PRINCIPAL SPONSOR

Your logo here

One seat. No second logo, no ad network, no sponsored rows.

A page that states the running costs, where the money goes, and what it explicitly does not buy.

The terminal is not starting from zero.

Two partners already carry real cost so the terminal stays free. Neither pays for placement, and neither is presented as if they did.

HypeDexer

IN-KIND · DATA INFRASTRUCTURE

Serves every API request behind the terminal. That is a live infrastructure cost they absorb so the data stays free at the point of use. Credited as a data provider, which is what they are.

Enigma Validator

IN-KIND · VALIDATOR FEES

EV

Validator fees fund public goods work across the Hyperliquid ecosystem, including the public goods directory maintained inside the terminal.

Curated in the open

The public goods directory inside the terminal is curated with Ryzed (Hyperswap), Imad (Enigma) and Kirby (HypurrCo). Named contributors, credited by name, with no money changing hands.

A data credit and a paid sponsorship are two different things. Blurring them is the fastest way to make both worthless, so the terminal keeps them visually and structurally apart.
